

SAR & QIP DEVELOPMENT

About us

We offer expert quality improvement services through our sister company ALIN. The range of these services have been developed as a result of extensive experience as inspectors and our continuous detailed analysis of inspection reports. Our aim is to provide clients with a customised service tailored to meet your individual needs and support you in continuing to improve the quality of your provision.

Our highly specialised team will support you through the full SAR production process by providing you with invaluable insights and coaching on the planning, processes, and purposeful use of self-assessment.

The self-assessment report is a shop window into the providers understanding of their own provision. The SAR is a critical evaluation and improvement tool, focusing on the impact of strategic oversight and operational management on learner progress and success. The support offered will develop your ability to accurately self-evaluate and produce a report, supported by evidence that truly reflects your provision.

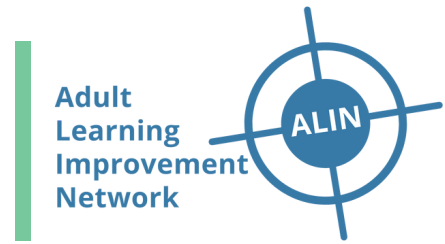

How it works

Through a course of meetings and based on the information and evidence that you offer we will:

- provide structure to your report and ensure that it reflects the key aspects of the EIF
- support in creating an honest evaluation of the provision, what is/isn't working and why
- ensure that the learner is the focus of the SAR and associated quality improvement plans.

Your adviser will lead your senior leaders and managers through professional discussions about your current self-assessment process and how you have used your previous SAR to drive up the quality of your provision. They will help you to identify key areas for inclusion and the usefulness of an accurate SAR to support your continuing quality cycle, as well as its relevance during Ofsted inspections. Your adviser will challenge you to make substantive judgements about your provision, and examine examples of your supporting evidence of the impact of both the identified strengths and areas for improvement.

Our team will read your SAR critically to ensure that it provides governors, senior leaders and managers, and other interested parties (including Ofsted) with an honest, accurate assessment of your delivery over the preceding year. It will reflect the areas of strength and areas for improvement, as well as the impact of your previous actions on the learners' experience, progress and success.

In addition, they will read the accompanying quality improvement plans (QIP) to ensure that strategic leaders and operational managers clearly identify how they plan to consolidate current strengths and swiftly resolve the remaining significant areas for improvement in the SAR. They will provide challenge and support in identifying appropriate success milestones for planned interventions.

Delivered remotely or in person.
